

A MEMORY THAT WILL LAST FOREVER!

How to Record Your Baby's Heartbeat

It's very simple! At every check-up, your doctor will monitor the heart rate of your baby using either a Doppler or Ultrasound unit. At this time you will simply switch the button on your red heart to record. Start by removing the plastic tab from the heart shaped recording module. Flip the switch to "R". Squeeze the heart to record. A red light will indicate it is working. Face the microphone towards the sound source. After recording, flip the switch to "P" to lock the heart into playback mode. Place a piece of tape on the switch. Place the heart into the back pocket of the animals chest and secure shut. Now you will have your baby's heartbeat to enjoy for years to come.
